About the Webinar

The Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 sought to bring calmness into the lives of women in a havoc household. The Act for the first time did not restrict itself to protection against physical violence, but also included emotional and sexual abuse in the definition of domestic violence. The Act entails with itself protection to married women, mothers, sisters and daughters, hereby identifying every vulnerable in a household. Despite the fourteen years of the enactment of the law, the respite to victims of domestic violence has not come easy.

The present webinar has come to be organised at a time where every woman was confined to the household for a major part of the year and a lot of them witnessed violence in some form. The basic objective of this webinar seeks to make everyone aware about the provisions in the act, how effective have they been, and the need to make amendments so as to restore the dignity and prosperity of women.
